Each mile of the Lincoln highway in Indiana is to be planted with memorial trees, says the American Forestry association, of Washington, which will send any one free tree planting instruction and a tree planting day program. DOCTORS FIND REMEDY FOR COLDS AND FLU

Calotabs, the New Nauseless Calomel Tablets, Cut Short Colds and May Prevent Flu by Keeping Liver Active.

Physicians have learned from experience, during the epidemic of influenza, that one of the most important factors in the prevention of flu and pneumonia is to keep the liver active so that the digestive organs may be in perfect working order and the system thereby enabled to throw off colds, check one's throat and resist serious complications. For this purpose, Calotabs have found that the new nausealess calomel tablets called Calotabs, are far more effective even than the old style calomel, which was formerly the universal favorite. Calotabs do not weaken the patient, but interfere with the appetite and digestion. At the first sign of a cold or sore throat, doctors recommend one Calotab at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, nor the slightest interference with your diet, pleasure or work. Next morning you wake up feeling fine, your liver is active, and your appetite is keen for a good breakfast. For your protection Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. All druggists recommend and guarantee Calotabs. Your money back if you are not satisfied with them.

SAVAGE FIGHT RAGING WITHIN CITY OF RIGA

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 12.—Savage fighting is still going on in the city of Riga between Lithuanian and Lithuanian troops and the German-Russian army which have become involved in the fighting here state have fired a portion of the town and that great damage has been done the quays and harbor. Many civilians have been killed during the battle.

Dispatches received here state that all the prisoners taken by the Lithuanians have been released. British warships have been fired upon by the German-Russian forces, and an unconfirmed report declares a British force has been landed in or near the city.

Blockade measures are seemingly being rigidly enforced in the Baltic, six German merchant ships having been captured by one British destroyer.

Soldier And Woman Charged With Effort To Kill Chauffeur

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 13. (Sp.)—Gerald P. Fisher, a Camp Pike soldier, and Gertrude Davis, a young woman, were caught by three chauffeurs near Jacksonville early today and brought here to face charges of having attempted to kill Thomas E. Williams, another chauffeur.

Fisher was turned over to Camp Pike authorities. The couple last night hired Williams to drive them to Cabot. When near Jacksonville they had him stop the car. Both got out. A minute later Fisher fired a revolver. He fired three more shots, all of which struck Williams, one of them after he had fallen. The couple, leaving Williams for dead, got in the machine and drove off. Later Williams, who was not seriously wounded, walked to Jacksonville and got a train for Little Rock. The three chauffeurs then started out and caught the couple.

THE MEXICAN BORDER FOR MANY YEARS

Such Was Duty of J. R. Watts in Days When Bandits of Southern Republic Crossed Line on Forays.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 13.—It is one thing to saddle one's horse on a cold, rainy night, and with three or four or half a dozen fellow soldiers, plunge into the darkness for a 40 or 50-mile patrol of the Rio Grande, when nobody knows just what is waiting for him out there in the mesquite and sandy wastes, and it is another thing—entirely different—to saddle one's horse and do the stunt alone. But J. R. Watts—so many that it really doesn't matter more years than any other man in similar service, during this has been the lot and duty of J. R. Watts, the oldest government scout on the Mexican border.

Watts was born and reared in San Antonio, but for years on top of years his existence has been wrapped up in the border and the possible action of that band of bandits or smugglers whom some sworn enemy he is and a meeting with whom means trouble in joyously large chunks.

Watts' work consists of general scout duty in the vicinity of Riohondo, Guadalupe and points farther up and down the river to the good old Rio Grande. While his introduction to them has not been exactly according to the rules laid down in the code book of fashionable society, he has met and become intimately—often painfully—acquainted with some of the most prominent and successful bandits and smugglers and other border whatnots of the past quarter of a century.

Among Mr. Watts' intimate friends of the olden days was Judge Roy Bean, of Langtry, then literally, as was his claim, "the law west of the Pecos," and whose peculiar fame is being preserved in Texas histories.

Watts' position as scout sent him across the international line into Mexico many times, and it was only a piece of luck which kept a certain trip along in 1907 from being his last. He was forced, in self-defense, to kill a Mexican.

Nation After Him.

"That whole republic was after me," he said in telling of his narrow escape. "I was 31 days in the mountains making my way back to the good old U. S. A. At one time a searching party of seven men passed within six feet of me, but the good old U. S. A. stayed with me when I shook my foot on this side of the river, you don't know how sweet and good the good old United States dirt did feel."

A few weeks ago Watts and three rangers saw nine or ten men trying to get across the river with stolen horses. The rangers scattered and began shooting. Two remained in sight for a brief space of time. One paid for his procrastination with his life, while the other leaped from his horse and ran.

Watts' position as scout sent him across the international line into Mexico many times, and it was only a piece of luck which kept a certain trip along in 1907 from being his last. He was forced, in self-defense, to kill a Mexican.

WEEKLY SUMMARY OF COTTON BELT WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Summary of weather conditions and crop conditions in the cotton region for the week ending Oct. 12. Moderately high temperatures prevailed over the eastern portion of the cotton belt, but moderately low temperatures obtained in the northwestern portion. Good to excessive rains and inadequate sunshine caused progress to be retarded and poor with considerable damage in Arkansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas, where picking is mostly a standstill or only slow progress has been made. Favorable picking was done over the east half of the belt with harvest well along in most sections and nearly completed in Georgia, Florida and Southern Louisiana. Picking nearly at a standstill.

Condition of the crop ranges from rather poor to about average in the Carolina and prospect for a top crop in South Carolina is very poor.

Report by states:

Texas—Cotton deteriorated in all sections. Condition still satisfactory in western half, but mostly very poor elsewhere. There are complaints of decaying bolls, picking nearly at a standstill.

Oklahoma—Considerably damaged by excessive rains and picking retarded on account of excessive rainfall.

Georgia—Almost all picked, balance being gathered rapidly; drought injured top crop badly; yield of cotton very short.

Alabama—Condition ranges from very poor to about average; picking and ginning practically finished in some sections in south, progressing rapidly and well advanced in north.

Mississippi—Picking made poor to satisfactory progress; heavy rains caused damage.

Kansas—Considerable damage to cotton by excessive rains and picking made poor progress.

South Carolina—in poor to average condition generally; top crop very poor although fair proportion of plant still green; picking proceeding.

North Carolina—Nearly all open in portions of south; opening rapidly elsewhere; many bolls small; good progress in picking.

Tennessee—Made no material change; conditions favorable for top growth.

Louisiana—Picking made slow progress. Heavy rainfall unfavorable for harvesting.

Some Political Snap Shots Just Fired At Random

A big supply of bottled up campaign oratory is awaiting a cessation of the rain. Four or five rallies are planned for this week have been abandoned because of the storm and there was every indication Wednesday afternoon that the weather man doesn't care much whether the voters hear the campaign speakers or not.

If the weather clears, two big rallies will be held Wednesday night.

The Citizens' League has planned to hold a rally at Forest park, and the Williams ticket will have a rally in Gaston park.

If the same kind of weather should happen to prevail on election day, the problem of the size of the women's vote will still more complicated and the taxicab companies ought to do a rushing business.

Speakers for the Williams ticket are preparing to do some talking about Roosevelt's record as food administrator for West Tennessee during the war. They will, so report goes, charge him with being responsible for the high prices of food commodities. There are two sides to most questions, but perhaps such an attack will serve to draw attention from the attacks on Mr. Williams' record.

Speaking of campaign speeches, Charley Shannon made a hit the other night when he said that the Williams ticket was going to have two commissioners for the same office. If they happen to be elected.

"One will be commissioner of medicine and pills," said Mr. Shannon, "the other commissioner of pills and medicine. And Lord knows they'll need 'em, when the people find out how high their taxes are and some of them faint."

C. W. Miller is still on the political fence. He is a candidate for re-election, but he hasn't filed his petition yet. He can do that any time within 10 days before the election. Being an Indiana Democrat, he is naturally a bit undecided whether to stay in the race or not.

The candidates on the Williams ticket were all put through an intonation of their names at an outside meeting of one of the lodges of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, including riding the official car and sitting in a chair containing a strong electric battery. They are said to have shown more speed than at any other meeting during the campaign.

Dave Wells hasn't withdrawn from the city commissioner, but he's like C. W. Miller, and is delaying having his name placed on the official ballot. He makes up his mind just where he is likely to stand on election day.

W. H. ARMSTRONG MARRIES GIRL IN IOWA

Wade Hampton Armstrong, of Memphis, who about three years ago figured in several sensational episodes in Memphis courts, including huge damage suits and a sanity hearing, was married in Owana, Ia., Saturday to Miss Genevieve Harper, daughter of a prominent grain man of that place, according to word received here Wednesday by Bill Orr, court reporter.

Armstrong, who was declared insane here and committed to the state hospital for the insane at Bolivar, escaped about two years ago and went to Chicago. He has been very successful, according to Orr, on the Chicago board of trade. Orr saw Armstrong in Chicago this summer and stated that he maintained an expensive suite of rooms at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

SMALL HOPE HELD FOR LIFE OF MISSING BOY

HAMMONTON, N. J., Oct. 13.—Although the search continued today, but slight hope was entertained by those working on the case for the recovery alive of 3-year-old Billy Dunaway, who disappeared a week ago while playing near his home here.

After a thorough search of the surrounding country, and the investigation of a number of police kidnapping clues, the belief seems to prevail the child wandered into one of the deep marshes or cranberry bogs in the vicinity and was drowned. In this case it was feared his body may never be recovered. The authorities said today they would continue the search "as long as there is a thread to work on."
